CASE MANAGEMENT CONFERENCE STATEMENT

Counsel for the Defendant presents the following Case Management Conference Statement:

1. A statement of the date and time that counsel conferred as required by this order: Counsel for the Defendant and counsel for the Plaintiff have discussed aspects of this matter at various times since the filing of the complaint, but owing to a lack of familiarity with the fine details of the process, counsel for the Defendant did not record the dates or times of these conversations. The last conversation was held between Mr. Nagel and counsel on Wednesday, October 20, at approximately 2:20 p.m., when the issues raised by the complaint were dis-

1 cussed.

2 2. A concise statement summarizing each legal theory on which the 3 plaintiff or defendant relies and a brief general statement of the facts which sup-
4 port this theory: Plaintiff believes that this is a standard credit card cash advance
5 matter, with standard presumptions regarding a transfer of funds due to misrepre-6 sentation by the Defendant and reliance by the Plaintiff. Defendant contends that 7 in the transactions described in the complaint, there were no representations by the 8 Defendant, and no reliance by the Plaintiff, and that in fact the Plaintiff retained full 9 control of the funds subject of the described transactions before, during, and after 10 the transactions and that in fact there were no "cash advances" involved at all.

11 3. The position of the parties with respect to Bankruptcy Rules 7008 and 12 7012(b): This is a core proceeding and jurisdiction is proper. Regarding the other 13 aspects of these rules, counsel for the Defendant takes no position at this time.

14 4. Proposed discovery and proposed cut-off dates for discovery and pre-15 trial motions: The Defendant has responded to the Plaintiff's (first) Requests for 16 Admissions. Counsel for the Defendant is in the process of preparing requests for 17 admissions, requests for production of documents, and interrogatories, but in order 18 to set these up so that they are precisely targeted and so that they create only a 19 minimal inconvenience for the Plaintiff, they have to be drafted carefully. Addi-
20 tionally, since these transactions were all performed using the Plaintiff's online 21 banking programs, it can be expected that the Plaintiff will resist responding to 22 discovery requests and the anticipation of this resistance requires that each request
23 be drafted so that its need can be demonstrated to the Court.

24 At this time, it appears that to be properly targeted, discovery will probably 25 require an initial phase of data gathering involving a small number of individual 26 requests, the responses to which will help frame a small second-phase set of 27 requests. Since the Plaintiff will have thirty days to respond in each phase, the 28 Case Management Conference should probably be continued for 90 days or so with

1 the expectation that at that time another continuance may be needed, but that at 2 least the timing will be clearer at that time.

3 5. The estimated time for trial and desired trial date: Until the end of 4 discovery is in sight, neither of these can be estimated. If the Defendant's discov-
5 ery reveals facts that counsel for the Defendant anticipates, this matter may be 6 resolved by a motion for summary judgment.

7 6. Whether alternative dispute resolution is desired by the parties: At 8 this time the facts are not seen in the same way by both parties, and so ADR 9 would be a source of frustration.

10
11 Comment by Counsel for the Defendant

12 As the Court and opposing counsel are aware, counsel for the Defendant 13 does not routinely handle dischargeability complaints, but on review, the facts of 14 this particular matter do not seem to place it into the stereotypical pre-petition
15 cash-advance mold. It will be the objective of counsel for the Defendant to show 16 that the very nature of the transactions involved, as a case of first impression, the 17 presumptions are overcome and that the Defendant's debt to the Plaintiff will be 18 determined to be dischargeable. Of course it is possible that the decision will not 19 go that way and that this case will simply help define what is a nondischargeable 20 cash advance.

21
22 Conclusion

23 This Case Management Conference should be continued for 90 to 120 days 24 so that discovery can be gotten underway.

25 Respectfully submitted,

26
27 Dated: October 22, 2010
